Foreword

This review reflects exciting developments and the continued growth of the South African Holocaust & Genocide Foundation (SAHGF). Noteworthy are the relocation of the Durban Holocaust Centre to larger premises and the start of construction of the Johannesburg Holocaust & Genocide Centre with its world class permanent exhibition. These two Centres, together with the Cape Town Holocaust Centre, now in its 13th year, have engaged with a broad public in carrying out important education and remembrance work.

Particularly gratifying is our growing regional and international reputation and our unique work in South Africa. SAHGF personnel participated in think tanks and conferences, locally and internationally, on the Holocaust and human rights, genocide prevention and museums’ roles in education and social change.

In South Africa, no single institution or government can alone address the challenge of nurturing democracy and the legacy of endemic poverty and entrenched racism. We are thus honoured to have been invited to various initiatives that tackle these crucial issues.

Rigorous study of the Holocaust is pivotal to all our activities. As the number of survivors diminish, the centrality of historical evidence becomes crucial. We are compiling an inventory of the SAHGF’s considerable collection of Holocaust artifacts, documents and ephemera which will constitute a unique South African resource.

Confirmation from the South African Department of Education that the national school curriculum will include a 15-hour compulsory unit for Grade 9 learners on the Holocaust has greatly increased the demand for our educator training, education materials and school visits.

Productive local and international partnerships have led to a plethora of public events and programmes, including the acclaimed Brundibár project with the first ever African staging of the renowned children’s opera, Brundibár.

All our activities are largely dependent on the generous and ongoing financial support of individuals, corporates, organisations and foundations. We thank them for their trust and encouragement.

The constant interest, guidance and belief of the Board of Trustees and the dedicated professionalism of my colleagues Tali Nates and Mary Kluk and the education and administrative staff have ensured the successes of the past and the ability to meet the challenges which lie ahead.

Richard Freedman, Director
South African Holocaust & Genocide Foundation
Cape Town Holocaust Centre

This year the Cape Town Holocaust Centre (CTHC) continued to host a wide range of public events and lectures, film screenings and guest speakers. Our education programmes and school visits are in ever increasing demand. The Centre’s professional and administrative staff, dedicated volunteers and Holocaust survivors have ensured that our reputation for excellence continues to grow. Rosemary Gon, a key member of the Education team, has made a significant contribution and thus we will miss her greatly as she will be retiring at the end of this year.

A major focus of the year was the extraordinary Brundibár Project, including the first performances in South Africa of the Brundibár children’s opera. The Centre worked in partnership with organisations across the city to ensure that this project had major impact, reaching over 10,000 people from diverse communities.

Guest speakers included Professor Jeremy Sarkin whose book, The German Genocide of the Herero was launched at the Centre, and the Stern Visiting Scholar, acclaimed author and academic Dr. Eva Hoffman. We also hosted Holocaust survivors, Ben Helfgott, Ela Weissberger and Dr Dora Love. Visiting historians, Professor Hans Safrian (Vienna University), Professor Roy Wiehn (Constance University) and Dr Vojtech Blodig (Terezín Memorial Museum) added significantly to our knowledge of Holocaust history.

The DVD Remember Not To Forget was launched in December. This key project is aimed at creating a lasting link for young people to the survivors and Holocaust History.

The CTHC gratefully acknowledges the dedication, interest and guidance of our trustees and the ongoing support of our benefactors, all of whom enable the Centre to continue to flourish.

David Susman Seminar Room

To honour the late David Susman, Founding Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the CTHC, the Centre’s seminar room has been named in his memory. The heart of the Centre’s education programmes, the seminar room is used for high school learners, adult workshops, staff development, visiting lecturers and small exhibitions.

Holocaust and Human Rights Writing and Art Competition

Responding to Injustice was the theme of the Centre’s annual competition for Grade 9 to 12 learners. The aim is to contribute towards a more just society in which people understand their connection to the community. Cedric van Dyk (Rustenberg Girls’ High School), Tracey Petersen (Education Director, CTHC) and Rustenberg Girls learner, Hannah MacMillan at the awards against the backdrop of the Terezín Memorial’s Vedem exhibition.

The Boys from the Ashes

The Nazi invasion of the Baltic States on 22 June 1941 resulted in the almost entire destruction of its Jewish population. The 70th anniversary was commemorated with the staging of The Boys from the Ashes, the story of Vilna Ghetto survivor, Israel Gurwicz. The play was written and directed by Courtneigh Cloud, Israel’s granddaughter who said, ‘My grandfather Israel Gurwicz was saved by a Lithuanian woman during the Holocaust. Her heroic deeds inspired my need to tell his story. I believe that such acts of kindness can change the world entirely’.

Remember Not To Forget

In an effort to keep Holocaust memory alive in the Cape Town Jewish community, the CTHC has developed the DVD, Remember Not To Forget. The DVD includes a class photograph of each learner with a survivor, Grade 12 pupils from Herzlia High School in discussion with Holocaust survivors, Ella Blumenthal and Miriam Lichterman, and the documentary Survivor Testimony made especially for the CTHC’s permanent exhibition. Every child in the Jewish Day Schools will receive a copy of this important reminder of tragic events of the Holocaust. This project was initiated and sponsored by Philip and Michele Krawitz and family.

‘With each passing year the number of Holocaust survivors is rapidly declining. The authentic voices of those who were there and lived through the horrors are diminished every day’.

Myra Osrin
Founding Director CTHC at the Yom Hashoah commemoration in Cape Town
It is with an enormous sense of pride that I look back on the achievements of the Durban Holocaust Centre (DHC) this year. We relocated to much larger premises, on the same campus, giving us a bigger exhibition space, a seminar room, a media centre, administration offices and a beautiful gift shop. The Centre shares space with Circle Café, which overlooks a tranquil and beautiful Garden of Remembrance. As always, expansion and growth has resulted in a considerable increase in our expenses and we are indebted to Andy Bernstein and her team for their inspiration and hard work in creating and running our magnificent DHC Gift Shop which generates much needed income.

More than 4 000 learners during 75 school visits have participated in workshops at the Centre since we reopened in May and our capacity has grown beyond our wildest dreams. We also facilitated workshops for 120 teachers and hosted many important public events and exhibitions. We were very sorry to bid farewell to educator, Nosipho Thabethe, who has been an integral part of the DHC’s growth and success. We wish her family well in their exciting move to Johannesburg. We are delighted to welcome Mdu Ntuli to our team.

It is through the support of our trustees, the generosity of our benefactors and the commitment of our staff and dedicated volunteers that this volume of activity is at all possible – my thanks to each one of you.

My sincere thanks to our community and the people of Durban for responding so positively to the ‘new’ DHC and I encourage visitors to pop in on your next trip to our city.

Creating an exhibition for the 21st Century
Experts in the Holocaust and genocide field from key organisations around the world such as the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum, Yad Vashem, Aegis Trust, Voices of Rwanda, PROOF and Yahad-in Unum amongst others and Holocaust and Rwandan survivors, have generously shared their experience, expertise, knowledge and resources with the JHGC.

PROOF: Media for Social Justice, founded and headed by Leora Kahn, uses photography to inform and educate about human rights. Its Rescuers in Rwanda project will add much value to the JHGC’s exhibition.

Yahad-in Unum, a leading research organisation, founded by Fr Patrick Desbois, which investigates the genocide in the former Soviet Union of 1.5 million Jews, Roma and other victims of the Nazis and their allies, will share its latest research, artifacts and testimonies.

Dr Stephen Smith, founding director of the UK Holocaust Centre and now executive director of the USC Shoah Foundation Institute for Visual History and Education, is sharing his experience with the JHGC.

Through Taylor Krauss, founder and executive director of Voices of Rwanda, an organisation dedicated to recording and preserving survivor testimonies, the JHGC’s permanent exhibition will feature some of these moving stories.

We are most grateful to those individuals, foundations and organisations who have chosen to become our partners in this exciting and significant project and thank them for their generous support. Our fundraising drive continues vigorously. For information regarding benefactor and donor opportunities contact +27 11 640 5100 or email info@jhbholocaust.co.za. Johannesburg Holocaust & Genocide Centre

2011 has been an eventful year for the JHGC. The key development is the finalisation of the vision, concept and design of both the building and permanent exhibition of the new Centre to be built on the prime Jan Smuts Avenue site, which has been made available by the City of Johannesburg. The long process of obtaining all building permits is finally coming to an end and earthworks recently commenced on site.

We are fortunate to be working with a talented local team including architect Lewis Levin, exhibition designer Linda Bester, Dr Chaya Herman (University of Pretoria) and Myra Osrin (Founding Director of the CTHC) as well as having the privilege of consulting internationally with Holocaust and genocide experts.

Despite our lack of a permanent facility, the past year has been filled with events, travelling exhibitions and educational programmes, in collaboration with a number of national and international partners.

I would like to express my gratitude to members of our committee, professional staff and volunteers, Holocaust survivors, generous benefactors, and the director and trustees of the SAHGF and our sister centres in Cape Town and Durban for their commitment, dedication and passion.

Johannesburg Holocaust & Genocide Centre

As we continue working from a temporary space, the JHGC would like to thank the Apartheid Museum, Museum Africa, Liliesleaf Trust, Rabbi Cyril Harris Community Centre, Goethe-Institut South Africa, United Nations Information Centre, Constitution Hill, Bet David and Wits University, for so generously opening their ‘homes’ to us and for inviting the Centre to be partners on many special events and programmes. Some of these organisations are featured elsewhere in this Annual Review.

Programmes for Holocaust survivors

The JHGC and Second Innings (a focus group for the older active adults) and the Friendship Forum (for Holocaust survivors and their families), projects of Community Social Services, a division of the Chevrah Kadisha, hosted a morning on The March of the Living 2011 (MOTL).

MOTL participants, Laurence and Laurance Hodes spoke about their experiences and impressions with Laurence’s focus being her emotional journey as a second generation Holocaust survivor. Leader of the South African Youth Delegation, Rene Pozniak stressed the importance of youth participation while Holocaust survivor, Don Krausz described his personal experience on one of the infamous Death Marches from Sachsenhausen concentration camp.

Education, Partnerships and Events

South Africa and Rwanda Study tour

Following the successful educational tour of South Africa and Rwanda in 2009 for Monash University (Melbourne, Australia and Johannesburg campuses), the JHGC was again instrumental in coordinating the 2011 Seeking Justice: South Africa and Rwanda tour for 26 students, led by Monash University Professors, Mark Baker and Simon Adams. The trip forms part of the students’ course-work.

The Peermont Schools Support Programme (PSSP)

The JHGC designed and presented interactive workshops using the Holocaust to further learners’ understanding of human rights for the Peermont Group, which provides financial support and resources to seven Gauteng schools. Over 2,400 Grade 9 learners attended the workshops. The programme culminated in a public speaking competition at Constitution Hill to honour Human Rights Day.

On a recent visit to South Africa, Holocaust survivor Dr Dora Love addressed learners at Liliesleaf Museum during the Lessons from Rwanda exhibition.
Making History: The Brundibár Project

The CTHC initiated and co-ordinated The Brundibár Project, in partnership with Artscape, Cape Town Opera, Magnet Theatre, Frank Joubert Art Centre, Ibhabhathane and creative arts practitioners. The Project aimed to expand Holocaust education, inspire a commitment to building Human Rights and develop young people’s creativity. The Brundibár Project achieved its aims and more, reaching over 10 000 people. Central to the project was the children’s opera, Brundibár, which was performed for the first time in South Africa. The performances fittingly opened on 18 July, Nelson Mandela International Day.

As part of The Brundibár Project, the SAHGF brought a special guest, Ela Stein Weissberger, to South Africa. Ela Stein was 11 when she was sent to Terezín. After the Brundibár score was smuggled into the camp, Ela was cast as the Cat. Most of the cast perished at Auschwitz-Birkenau. Ela has never forgotten her experience of performing in Brundibár. She continues to share her memories of Terezín, and addressed adults and learners in Cape Town, Durban and Johannesburg: “I speak in the voices of those who couldn’t make it. I speak so we can remember them.”

Ela Weissberger with cast members, Samantha Sadler and Bathini Sigaqa, at the Cape Town production

Directed by Aviva Pelham, the opera, Brundibár, tells of two poor siblings who, with the help of three animals, banish a sinister organ grinder, Brundibár. Reflecting on performances of the opera in the Nazi ghetto, Theresienstadt, survivors speak of Brundibár as “small bright sparks of hope and defiance in a long, dark night”.

Responding to Brundibár

The Brundibár Project Exhibition comprised an interactive installation and artwork by Frank Joubert Art Centre and Ibhabhathane learners. Also displayed was art by the children imprisoned in Terezín (on loan from the Jewish Museum of Prague through the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of the Czech Republic) as well as a new travelling exhibition on Vedem, the secret boys’ magazine, written in Terezín. With the permission and assistance of Dr Jan Munk (Director, Terezín Memorial) and Dr Vojtěch Blodig (Deputy Director, Terezín Memorial), who travelled to South Africa for the occasion, the Vedem exhibition was especially adapted by the SAHGF for use in South African schools.

An ancillary schools’ week-long programme was attended by over 1 000 learners, many from disadvantaged communities. They engaged with the exhibitions and participated in writing, drama, movement and art activities.

After the Artscape performances, Brundibár was taken to outlying communities and reached close on 1 000 learners.

As part of The Brundibár Project, the SAHGF brought a special guest, Ela Stein Weissberger, to South Africa. Ela Stein was 11 when she was sent to Terezín. After the Brundibár score was smuggled into the camp, Ela was cast as the Cat. Most of the cast perished at Auschwitz-Birkenau. Ela has never forgotten her experience of performing in Brundibár. She continues to share her memories of Terezín, and addressed adults and learners in Cape Town, Durban and Johannesburg: “I speak in the voices of those who couldn’t make it. The opera is normally performed with a companion piece. A new production, The Children and the Bees, which placed Brundibár’s themes in a South African context, was developed by the Magnet Theatre.
Programmes for high school learners

Programmes for high school learners using both the permanent and travelling exhibitions are a crucial aspect of the SAHGF’s work. This year workshops have reached over 11 000 learners from a wide range of backgrounds across the country. Since 2007, the study of the Holocaust has been a significant unit in Grade 9 Social Studies and Grade 11 History and the Foundation’s programmes have been designed to meet the needs of the National Schools’ Curriculum. Recently, peer group guiding has been successfully introduced.

The workshops include a multimedia presentation in which participation is encouraged and a guided tour of the exhibition by the education staff and volunteer assistants. Themes explored in the programmes include stereotyping, the fragility of democracy, the impact of propaganda and how to become an activist rather than a bystander. The exhibition visit is followed by small group activities, discussion and written reflection. Learners are encouraged to examine their context and specific instances of human rights violations encountered both at school and in their communities.

Holocaust Education

Educator training

The SAHGF continues to support the teaching of Holocaust history through its acclaimed in-service educator training workshops. Many educators experience a lack of confidence in teaching the history of the Holocaust. A contributing factor to this is a shortage of lesson-friendly resources. A large number of educators are also not trained to teach History and struggle with both content knowledge and methodology. The SAHGF’s educator training programmes address these issues.

In the course of 2011, the Foundation has conducted in-service educator workshops for over 500 educators in rural and urban areas of the Eastern and Western Cape, Mpumalanga, North West, KwaZulu-Natal and Gauteng. These workshops are part of an ongoing national programme made possible through the generous support of the Claims Conference, The Open Society Foundation of South Africa and the CS Mott Foundation. This sponsorship enables the Foundation to provide each educator with classroom support materials and The Holocaust: Lessons for Humanity poster set for each school. The workshops are designed to equip educators to use these materials through interactive participation and exploration of good classroom practice.

Participants are unanimous in their praise of the workshops, and express a growth in confidence in their ability to teach not only the history of the Holocaust, but history in general.
Educational resources

The SAHGF has expanded its teaching materials with the development of the Grade 9 Lesson Plan Pack to assist educators in teaching of The rise of Nazism, WW II in Europe and the Holocaust as per the National Curriculum and Assessment Policy Statement (CAPS). The new packs provide educators with historical content, innovative methodologies and assessment tools and are a welcome addition to the existing The Holocaust: Lessons for Humanity Resource Pack containing the Learner’s Interactive Resource Book (also available in Afrikaans), an accompanying Educator’s Resource Manual, a DVD and 32 classroom posters.

The classroom programme Responding to the Human Cry, was developed in response to the 2008 xenophobic attacks in South Africa. Interactive activities use sources drawn from Holocaust history and contemporary newspaper reports, cartoons and testimony to engage learners around the issues of human rights, xenophobia, prejudice and discrimination.

The Foundation, with the assistance of the Embassy of the Federal Republic of Germany, has developed a DVD with Elke Geising, whose parents were Nazis. In the documentary Elke reflects on her childhood and how she has come to deal with her difficult legacy. The documentary will be used as part of the Foundation’s programmes.

The impact of adult programmes

The SAHGF offers adult programmes designed for university students and faculty, members of the South African Police Service, nursing staff, Correctional Services, the Military and Naval Academies, church groups, corporates, and a broad spectrum of groups from wider society.

There are many examples of how the Foundation’s diversity training workshops impact on individuals. Speaking of her participation in a programme, a post-graduate education faculty student in the Western Cape wrote, ‘An experience that has triggered responses within me that I never really thought about. I know this will make me a far better teacher.’

Attending a workshop at the CTHC, an offender serving a sentence in the Voorberg Correctional Service Institution wrote, ‘I have learnt about the survivors of the Holocaust who have triumphed over their tragic experiences ... This has inspired me to see that I too can triumph over tragedy’. After his release, he established a youth upliftment project for disadvantaged pupils and went on to become Chairman of the Atlantis Community Police Forum.

‘Thank you for teaching me so many valuable lessons – including what it means to be human.’

Campaigning against genocide

To commemorate the 17th anniversary of the Rwandan genocide, the Lessons from Rwanda exhibition was mounted in partnership with the United Nations Information Centre (UNIC) in both Johannesburg and Durban. The exhibition depicts the events that took place before, during and after the genocide and the lessons learnt. The exhibition was shown at the CTHC in 2007, and has been on display in over 20 locations worldwide.

The Johannesburg opening took place at the Liliesleaf Museum. Marie-Evelyne Petrus-Barry, (Director, UNIC) and Tali Nates, (Director, JHGC), introduced the exhibition. Rwandan genocide survivor, Bonaventure Kageruka shared his testimony.

Tali Nates was the keynote speaker at the Rwandan Embassy commemoration at UNISA in Pretoria. Holocaust survivor, Shlomo Pieprz and Bonaventure Kageruka, addressed international law students at the University of Johannesburg. The SA Litigation Centre’s (SALC) conference on southern Africa’s role in ensuring justice for the 1994 genocide in Rwanda featured selected panels from the Lessons from Rwanda travelling exhibition.

The 100 days of the Rwandan Genocide commemoration was marked in Cape Town with an event held at the Cape Peninsula University of Technology (CPUT). Proceedings included the reading of survivor testimonies from the Survivors’ Fund (SURF) and the screening of the documentary, For a Better Future. Claude Nikobisanzwe, First Secretary, High Commission of Rwanda in South Africa, gave the keynote address, Rwanda: Post Genocide.
Exhibition and Events

UN Holocaust Memorial Day honours women in the Holocaust

All three Centres marked UN Holocaust Remembrance Day 2011 on 27 January which this year paid tribute to the courage of women during the Holocaust.

- At the CTHC’s opening of the exhibition, Pictures of Resistance: the Wartime Photos of Jewish Partisan, Faye Schulman, created by the Jewish Partisan Education Foundation (JPEF), Executive Director of the JPEF, Mitch Braff, examined the role that Jewish women played in anti-Nazi partisan movements during WW II. Marie-Evelyne Petrus-Barry, (Director, UNIC), addressed the audience and brought the message from UN Secretary General, Ban Ki-moon.

- The JHGC, together with UNIC, represented by Sudeshan Reddy, hosted 150 Grade 9 learners at Museum Africa, Newtown. Tali Nates, (Director, JHGC) introduced the documentary, Daring to Resist, the stories of three young Jewish women who fought the Nazis. Testimony by Holocaust survivor Irene Klass was followed by a Q & A session, and guided tours around Museum Africa’s exhibitions and the SAHGF’s portable exhibition, The Holocaust: Lessons for Humanity.

- The DHC’s event included a performance of the play, The Boys from the Ashes, the story of Holocaust survivor, Israel Gurwicz, written and directed by his granddaughter, Courtneigh Cloud and an audio-visual presentation by Mitch Braff on the heroic role of women in the Partisans. Helen Hoedl, Deputy Director (UNIC), conveyed the message of UN Secretary General, Ban Ki-moon.
Pictures of Resistance

After the Cape Town opening of Pictures of Resistance: the Wartime Photos of Jewish Partisan, Faye Schulman, created by the Jewish Partisan Education Foundation (JPEF), the exhibition travelled to the DHC and the JHGC.

The exhibition highlights Faye’s courage and the hardships she faced. Despite being engaged in dangerous missions, she was determined to record her experiences. Faye survived, as did her images, allowing a rare glimpse into the previously unseen life of a partisan.

Kristallnacht Commemoration

Esteemed academic, Dr Hans Safran of Vienna University was the guest of the SAHGF and the Austrian Embassy to mark the Kristallnacht (November Pogrom) Commemoration. His lecture, Eichmann’s Men – 50 years of the Eichmann Trial in Jerusalem 1961 was delivered to capacity audiences at the Goethe-Institut in Johannesburg and at the Cape Town and Durban Holocaust Centres.

The Stern visiting scholar

The 2011 Ralph and Sue Stern visiting scholar was renowned author and academic, Dr Eva Hoffman. Dr Hoffman’s busy programme included educator workshops at all three Centres. She delivered the CTHC’s Ernest and Renee Samson 12th Anniversary lecture, Lost and found in transition: Contested Memories, as well as public lectures at the Wiser Institute at Wits and at the DHC. She conducted a seminar with UCT’s Dr Pumla Gobodo-Madikizela, Dr Chris van der Merwe and postgraduate students together with the Institute for the Healing of Memories. At the University of the Free State, she worked with Professor Jonathan Jansen and students where she focused on the trans-generational transmission of trauma.

During his visit as the guest of the SAHGF, Mitch Braff, Executive Director of JPEF, delivered public lectures and conducted workshops for History and Social Science educators from the Departments of Education around the country as well as for educators and volunteer education staff at all three centres. Grade 11 learners throughout South Africa also benefitted from his expertise through his schools’ programme which offered them an opportunity to explore the concept of ‘resistance’.

The exhibition tour of South Africa and Mitch Braff’s visit were made possible through the generosity of a donor to the JPEF.
